

Let Us Rejoice and Be Glad
(Psalm 118:24)

Introduction:

1. As we study Psalm 118 we must remember how it begins (vs.1) and how it ends (vs.29).
  - a. The Lord's people are to give thanks to Him.
  - b. The Lord deserves our thanks for 2 reasons:
    - 1) "He is good."
    - 2) "His mercy endureth for ever."
2. In our lesson we are especially interested in Psalm 118:24.
3. This verse has 2 main parts:
  - a. First, the writer declared that the Lord has made a particular day [by doing so the Lord demonstrated His goodness and mercy].
  - b. Second, the writer called upon the Lord's people to rejoice and be glad in that day [one way we demonstrate joy and gladness is by giving thanks to the Lord].
4. Let us begin by showing how . . .

Discussion:

- I. THE LORD'S PEOPLE ARE TO REJOICE AND BE GLAD
  - A. The Lord's people are to rejoice (Psalm 105:3; Philippians 4:4).
  - B. The Lord's people are to be glad (Psalm 100:2; Acts 2:46).
  - C. Many times in the Bible, rejoicing [joy] and gladness are joined together (Psalm 9:2; Revelation 19:7).
  - D. Because rejoicing and being glad are so important, we need to concentrate on matters that produce joy and gladness.
  - E. With this thought in mind, let us turn our attention to . . .
- II. SOME DAYS THAT THE LORD HAS MADE
  - A. In Psalm 118, the writer was telling about a day that would occur in the future.
    1. We can identify that day from the information given in vs.22-23.
    2. In Matthew 21:42-43 Jesus showed that the psalmist wrote about Him.
    3. Jesus eventually became the chief corner stone of God's house, the church (Acts 4:11; Ephesians 2:19-22).
    4. When this occurred, God demonstrated His goodness and mercy, and this was a reason for rejoicing and being glad.
  - B. Additional days:
    1. Let us realize that every day is a blessing from God.
      - a. God has been making days for a long time (Genesis 1:3-5).
      - b. According to Psalm 19:1-2, the regular passing of days and nights indicates that God exists and that He is the Creator.
      - c. When God blesses us with each new day He demonstrates His goodness and mercy, and this is a reason for rejoicing and being glad.
    2. Let us realize that each first day of the week is a blessing from God.
      - a. Some special events took place on the first day of the week.
        - 1) Jesus was resurrected on the first day of the week (Luke 24:1-3).
        - 2) The Lord's church was established on the first day of the week (Acts 2).
      - b. The Bible teaches that Christians are to worship God on the first day of the week (Acts 20:7; 1 Corinthians 16:1-2).
      - c. On each first day of the week we are reminded of how God has demonstrated His goodness and mercy, and this is a reason for rejoicing and being glad (Psalm 122:1).
    3. Let us realize that this particular first day of the week is a blessing from God.
      - a. Today is the 1-year anniversary of the congregation.
      - b. Over the past year God has demonstrated His goodness and mercy to us, and we have a good reason for rejoicing and being glad.

Conclusion:

1. In closing, let us consider another day that God has provided.
2. We read about it in 2 Corinthians 6:2 -- "Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation."
